When you arrive at Andover --whether you're a wide-eyed freshman getting lost on the way to Commons or a new senior immediately thrust under the impending pressure of first impressions and college decisions-- you have choices. What classes will you take? What activities will you embrace and make your own? Most importantly, how will you define yourself: who will you be? Sometimes, living in a place saturated with options has its drawbacks. There is indecision, fear of not being good enough, the insecurities that come with putting yourself out in the open and at risk to fail. However, there is also incredible success and joy upon uncovering your talents and passions alongside peers who are equally as motivated and ecstatic with their discoveries. At Andover, you're not required to fit one mold: we have painters who love Chemistry; athletes who live to study foreign languages; mathematicians who write poetry. Ultimately, it's not about fitting into a homogeneous group of work-minded students - it's about embracing this environment fraught with friendly competition. It's about channeling your energetic, unmolded identity into a thirst for trying new things. It's about looking around you, be it from the boisterous hallways of Commons, the hushed frenzy of silent study, the few serene moments as you walk home each night, and appreciating how singularly different every person around you is. There is room for failure here, room for mistakes, bruises and bravado, because by the end of your career, you will have found incredible success. Where will you find it? Are you a stage star, a goal-scorer, a prose master? We have no idea. It's up to you to explore and decide for yourself. Andover can give you options, but only you can choose where you're going, and, at the end of your journey, who you will be.

fall term

orientation

Oh, The Places You'll Go

Orientation was super fun! Driving up to campus freshman year I can vividly remember all the BKH's and Blue Key's standing on the corner of Main Street in the pouring rain screaming. Of course my parents had to embarrass me, so when we drove by, my dad rolled down the window blaring his horn. I remember the seniors, who I was petrified of, running up to the car, asking my name, being incredibly enthusiastic and welcoming. I knew at that moment that I wanted to be just like them. So finally, when senior year orientation rolled around, I could not have been more excited to share that experience with all the new students. I'm sure that we embarrassed multiple students and scared them with our incredible amount of school spirit, but I know that when their senior year comes around, they will be doing the same thing. All I can hope for, is that they had as memorable of an experience as I did!!!!

As a Blue Key Head, it was so nice seeing all the new students welcomed as warmly as we were four years ago. It's a crazy feeling knowing that the class of '13 has come full circle! -Stephanie Petrella '13

I am so thankful for the set of Blue Keys we had this year. They took their job seriously by being friendly and dependable which is all I could ever ask for. -Unwana Abasi '13

Running around, welcoming everybody here, and watching everyone slowly get less and less nervous and smiling was so great, especially when we were cheering around the Armillary sphere. -Henry Kennelly '13

The magical bond that a sour throat and tons of new students bring, it's like nothing I could possibly have imagined. You go in not really knowing what to do and suddenly everything falls into place. -Theo Agbi '13

He said, "Cheering with all of the clusters on the great lawn was really unique and sure, it might have been tough because my voice was non-existent (or rather, it sounded like Batman from The Dark Knight), but the excitement of all of the kids in Abbot and my fellow BKH Rhea Lewis '13 more than made up for me."

"The Midnight March was one of the highlights of the first few weeks. It was so fun and cool to meet new people and hang with new friends as we ran around the campus. It was super crazy. The only thing I didn't like was that it ended so abruptly!"
-Angela Dolan '16

"That was probably the most fun I've had since I got here."
-Ashley Scott '16

"My personal favorite part was when we did the cluster cheer-offs. Even though PKN "won" the competition, I know that WQN was the best (sorry everyone else). All in all, it was wonderful coming back for my senior year and it was a truly awesome experience."

"As a student coming from abroad (Belgium), I had many worries rushing through me. But, the student environment here is so open and accepting, that you make friends immediately. Not only do you meet many students in your own grade, what I found amazing was how warm and approachable the upperclassmen were towards me. The returning students that you meet on the first day are extremely friendly, and help you integrate into the Andover community immediately. With all of the new students that you meet and all of the exciting, funny activities organized during the weekend, you forget about your worries instantly. I felt immediately accepted into the community, and that is an essential factor that definitely contributed to my successful start here at Andover. Most importantly, it made me feel happy."

"Everybody, I've been waiting for this moment for a long time. The moment that I could stand before you all today and say: It feels good to be a senior. No matter how many years you've been here, '13, we all now have the privilege to be the leaders of this campus, we have the responsibility to be the role models, and we will have the honor to graduate together as the class of 2013. As seniors we'll have all sorts of fun. We can have senior tea in our senior tees and be happy with our seniority. We can finally flaunt our class sign with pride and yell at the top of lungs, that very lucky number: 13. Thirteen is a very special number. In many cultures it is considered both lucky and unlucky. Now I have a couple of questions for you. Originally, how many American colonies were there? How many items are in a baker's dozen? What is the first year of being a teenager? A little history lesson for everybody here: the class of thirteen has been called many things during its time here, freshman, juniors, sophomores, lowers, uppers, juniors again, the class of rain, the unlucky class, the lucky class, the best looking class, the most spirited class... and just plain old thirteen. But today, today we are called seniors. And while I don't necessarily know all of you, there is no class, no group of people that I would rather share that title with. So to all of my fellow seniors, thank you and let's let this year be the best year at Andover."

best memory from fall term?

"The best part of fall term was arriving on campus the first day of orientation. I will never forget turning down Chapel Ave. on the way to GW and seeing all of the blue keys shouting holding signs saying 'Honk if you love PA.' Meeting everyone and starting friendships that will last a life time is something that I personally won't ever forget." --Payton Jancsy '16

"My favorite memory from fall term was during my first pep rally. Seeing the whole school rally together to beat Exeter was a great experience. Also having the Blue Keys lead us in the school cheers was exhilarating! One that I will remember for the rest of my life." --Michaela Hagler '16

"Fall term was a great experience. Everyone was open and welcoming and I had a blast meeting new people and learning. I'll never forget it."

let them come andover/exeter 2012

In one instant, the very second the ball lands in Larken Kemp's receiving hands, the entire stadium explodes. Blue and white pom-poms fly into the air, and people let out outrageous cheers of joy. The energy is palpable, and the adrenaline coursing through your body is out of control. As a Blue Key Head, there's no greater feeling than looking out at this ecstatic sea of blue faces. Andover /Exeter is the culmination of my love for Andover. During this time, all cliques and social boundaries disappear, and the school transforms into one united a sea of blue. Everyone in the stands has the same purpose. Everyone in the stands wants the same thing. We all want to wreck the Ex. We are Andover. We are it.

when the tables are turned

Running Sadie this year was a great success and a lot of fun. As the head of Oxfam (a charity dedicated to fundraising for poverty and hunger), it was exciting to see how many people were purchasing tickets and ready to get dressed up to dance. The wonderful members of Oxfam gratefully volunteered, selling over 575 tickets during lunch periods. Once the night ended, we made close to $2,350, which was then donated to the international Oxfam charity. In the few minutes I had to visit the dance, it looked like everyone was having a great time. However, I was also having a great time on my own, admitting couples with some good friends -- or as we like to call ourselves, the OxFam-family.

"The team itself, no one expected much of us this coming year based on our record last year. We could only depend on each other, and that made us stronger. We all had a hunger for changing the nature of the Andover football program; and we did. We won two games and almost walked away with one against Exeter. That in itself says something about the TEAM that we had this year." --Robert Rush '14

"The best part of our season had to be our first win against NMH. We had all worked so hard and put in so much effort, it was only a matter of time before we got that first win. Everyone of the boys on the team deserved that W." --Alec Tolentino '14

"PAFH has a proud tradition and is a paradigm of success and passion, embodying determination and unity. Field hockey is sport where it is impossible for one player to dominate alone, requiring each player to be aware and to contribute. PAFH is like no other team on campus and the team shares a bond that is not easily replicated. PAFH has impacted me as an athlete and a person, highlighting the importance of diligence and perseverance. Most importantly PAFH would be nothing without the incredible teammates and dedicated coaching staff."

"Overall, I think we had a successful season. I think day in and day out we came to practice prepared to work hard for each other and had fun while doing it. By the end of the season we were all close friends. I don't think the number of games won and lost determine whether or not a season is successful, but by whether or not we had fun and were able to accomplish our team goals. Looking back on the season, we had a lot of fun while still accomplishing most of the goals we set for each other at the beginning of the season."

best moments of the season

"One of the best moments of the soccer season was when we all decided that we wanted to try to have our Worcester game postponed to the Friday before A/E rather than cancelled. Playing a hard game before A/E could have an effect on how we played against Exeter. Lisa put it to a vote, and everyone's hand went up." --Piper Curtis '13

"I will always remember when Lisa brought us old Andover football jerseys from Tony's, and we split up into teams and played football. We had so much fun, and even though we are much better at playing sports with our feet, we grew closer and loved each other even more after that game." --Emily Hoyt '13

"Right before the St. Paul's game, PG's Jessica Vocaturo '13 and Giovanna Pickering '13 handed out little slips of paper with an inspirational quotes on them and told each girl to put the paper in their shinguards. 'When the game is over, I want that paper to be absolutely NASTY with sweat,' said Pickering. 'Then you'll know that you've done whatever it takes for this team.'"

"Nick Faulkner '16, a freshman from Alaska, had an incredible first season. He is a very talented player, and though he did not play every game this year, when he was in the pool he made every second count. I'm very excited to see him progress and lead the team in the future." --Rome Arnold '14

"We were a group of young, relatively inexperienced players, and so it was important to have someone like David Cho '14 on the team. We could always rely on him to set an energetic, focused standard during practices and on game days. He's the type of character every team needs." --Marc Sevastopolou '15

"Henry Kennelly '13 never backed down from a tough opposition and his intensity was an example for the team to follow. Whether before the final quarter or the last set up squats, his positive spirit and enthusiasm was always great to have around." --Scott Simpson '14

"This year's Water Polo team was a great team to be apart of. We had guys come up from JV and guys who had never played before, which meant we were inexperienced but also really excited to play every game. After every game we always had multiple things we all agreed we could work on which made practices during the week very helpful to everyone. As captain, I tried to lead by example in both games and practices but I always ended up learning new skills from watching other players and listening to our three very experienced coaches."

Being the captain of the volleyball team was a phenomenal experience. We had a really fantastic group of girls this year, both on and off the court. As captain, I know many of my teammates looked to me throughout the season, which was a lot of responsibility but I would not trade it for anything. From the first game of the season to A/E and "Greased Lightning", we had some outrageously fun times as team that I'll never forget. Saying goodbye will be tough, but I'm so incredibly lucky to have had the chance to be a part of PAVB. After all, we're the best team on campus! -- Alexi Bell '13

"Our season wasn't easy, and we had to work hard to earn our team's success. Our 4th place finish at Interschols, though, was a testament to all the effort our runners put into their training and competitions, and I am honored to have spent 4 years running with such inspiring people and to have served as their captain this year. "If I could describe the cross country team in one word it would be family. This past season has made up some of my most cherished memories here at Andover and I could not have asked for a better group of girls to share them with. Whether it was singing "Lose Yourself" by Eminem, giving pep talks, running all out, or yelling "Spark it", this team gave it their all and I couldn't be more proud to be a part of it!" -- Hailey Novis '13

"I couldn't remember the last time it had snowed this much at Andover, so I was shocked when I woke up Saturday morning to mounds of snow that were as tall as me! As I walked from Thompson House to Commons I actually lost my sight, all I could see was the snow whirling around in front of me. After eating brunch, my friends and I took advantage of the abundance of Commons trays and went sledding behind gelb and the chapel.

However, we took a break from sledding around 1 in order to make it to the all school photo. All in all it was a great day, not only because of our snowy adventures, but also because it was a day in which we could relax, have fun, and enjoy each others company with no stress at all." --Lila Dolan '15

best part of the season?

"It has been an honor to have been elected by such an amazing group of hockey players and to be their captain. It is the coolest group of guys both on and off the ice, and because we have been able to build an unbreakable bond throughout the year, there is an unbelievable amount of diversity and triumph that will last a very long time through all of our memories." --Eddie Ellis '13

"This season has been a lot of fun and very memorable to say the least. Easily the most exciting part of the season was our huge dub over KUA, the top team in the league. Nobody gave us a chance, but we pursued that lofty goal. It resulted in the biggest win of the entire season. I'm not sure I have ever been as happy as I was after that game, sharing it with the boys." --Patrick Daly '15

"I am so proud of our team and so honored to be a captain. I love hockey so much and am so lucky to be able to play it everyday. As an upper, I had to find my footing and try to lead the team the best that I could. I love being a leader and have learned that it's about how much you try and your grittiness that determines your value as a player and a leader. Next year, it will be my fourth year on the team, so I look forward to that! This season, we have stayed scrappy, and I know we will play to the very end. We are still finding our way as a team, but we are still working together to be the best we can be." --Amy Morin '14

best traditions

Before each practice, one of the captains, either Papa G or Becca, would throw their varsity jacket or sweater into the air while everyone else says "aaaaaannnnndddd". -- Diego Chavez '16

My favorite tradition would have to be when the meet is over and we huddle together as a team and thank the refs and the other team, whether we won or lost. -- Brandon Girard '16

The day of the meet we will tape up our poles, maybe writing a message on them, or name them. (Mine's named Old Faith-pole). We all stay to watch and cheer until after the last person. -- Topher Hedley '13

During warm ups, a member of the team whose birthday is that day is called to the center of the warm up circle, and gets to lead us in jumping jacks. -- Julia Boyd '16

Before our warm-up lap, the captain would yell "Ready!" to which we would reply "Break!", then he'd say "Fiesta!" and we'd say "Ole!" and lastly, "51!" and we would chant "51!" back to him. -- Maria Amorosso '14

best part of the season?

"I would probably say that the best moment of Nordic season was after our NEPSAC league championships, all of the respective schools came together to produce one giant Nordic Harlem Shake video. I doubt you could say that happens in many sports."

"On the rally wagon back to campus from Gunstock, I remember falling asleep and waking up to some comedian that KRob was listening to on the radio or on tape or whatever. I just remember being extremely dazed as I listened to this strange, unknown man crudely discuss the differences between men and women and the entire rally wagon resounding with laughter. It was incredibly surreal and it reminded me how closely knit the Nordic team is."

"I love iclub and I consider myself incredibly blessed to be a part of such a valuable group. We form such a diverse group of students—our meetings host members from Boston to Bhutan, and other members from so many places that they don't know which to call home. Prolonged exposure to such a vibrant and exciting group of peers has changed my perspective and broadened my horizons beyond the scope of anything I had ever imagined before coming to Andover. What's more, I'm honored to play a part in bringing the talents and virtues of our club to the larger Andover community."

"I especially like the bond that the board has. The nine of us are incredibly close, and we're almost like a family. We've got a great working dynamic. I also think we've succeeded in providing a safe space for LGBTQ students, and members seem comfortable asking questions and diving into discussion. Since we have increased the size of the board since last year, we've been able to think of broader meeting topics, delegate tasks more efficiently, and plan more events. In addition, we've taken a slightly different approach to meetings than last year's board, as we've held more educational meetings. The mix of both education and discussion based meetings has allowed us to cover a broader range of LGBTQ-related topics. We've also moved our meetings to Gelb and started serving pizza at our meetings, and I think it's helped us attract a broader audience. biology (600)

Biology 600 is a competitive research biology course which has opened me up to the world of science. Thanks to this opportunity, I have designed a project focusing on autism, now have the skills to evaluate scientific articles, and am part of an international scientific collaboration. -- Anna Harrison '13

My project investigates whether a hormone in the blood called angiotensin has an effect on the rate at which skin regrows. Using the tools in the lab, I'm growing skin cells, cutting them to mimic a wound, and using a microscope to see if there are any differences. So far, my experiment is supporting the idea that angiotensin speeds the recovery of wounds. Hopefully, my research can contribute to the study of a drug that could help skin growth in humans. Bio 600 really helped me see how much my research could impact the real world and how good of a scientist I had become at PA. -- Saroj Gourkanti '13

I've absolutely loved being Pine Knoll Cluster President! It's been a great way to get to know kids I would not have otherwise, and it's an awesome way to convey the feelings of the students to the faculty. I've also loved getting to go to Dean's Table. Who would have thought the presidents and deans could have so much fun every other Thursday morning at 8am while everyone else is still asleep! (But really, we make it a party). - Olivia Bren '13

Being Cluster President has been one of the most incredible experiences that I have had Andover. I got to know so many new students that I might not have met otherwise. It's great to be able to voice student opinions to faculty who can help turn ideas into reality. Mr. Tipton has been wonderful to work with, as well as the student representatives seated on the Cluster Council. Besides, when you're the president of the best cluster on campus, there's not much that can go wrong. -- Christopher Hedley '13

favorite thing about the junior class

"My favorite thing about the class of 2016 is the all the different qualities that each person has. It really makes the grade fun and interesting. I can always find someone that I thought might of been so different from me but we end up being really good friends."

"The Class of 2016 is comprised of thoughtful, intelligent, and above all, kind teenagers. The word 'kind' has become a useless term used to describe someone you do not know very well. I will admit to not knowing everyone in our class. However, when I use the word 'kind' to describe the Class of 2016, I mean that the students are generous; willing to step out of their comfort zone for others; people who can cheer others up with a sentence or two; teens who will listen to the voices of their colleges [teachers, friends, etc.] and do their very best to hear the true voices of these people, after which they will respond to the best of their ability...sure, every so often we'll stumble. But we always get back up. Because every student in the Class of 2016 will Charlie Mike until they complete their mission." -Eman Lopez '16

favorite things about 2014

"One of the best things about the class of 2014 is that it embraces the huge changes that we are having at PA. We had 2 years of Mrs. Chase and we'll have 2 years of Mr. Palfrey. We'll be the first ones to have an Upper Spring Fling with Mr. Palfrey. We'll be the first senior class to experience the new president system and the new calendar next year. You can tell that '14 LOVES Andover no matter what!" --Melanie Olivia '14

"I suppose having Ms. Paulson, Mr. Koolen, and Mr. Nyamwaya helped a bit, but I don't think I ever went to bed any later than 11. Doesn't make sense to you? Yeah, doesn't to me either."
--Stephanie Nekoroski '14

"What I like most about the class of 2014 would have to be the sociability of my class. I can have a conversation with anyone in my grade and learn something interesting. Our grade is also pretty diverse in terms of activities across campus. We have athletes who are mathletes and Model U.N. members who act in theater productions. We're definitely the grade who loves to get involved in everything Andover has to offer."
--Robert Rush '14

"As a new upper, or as I like to call it, nupper, I was taken aback by the compassion of my new community."
--Samuel Block '14

"My favorite thing about class of fourteen is that everybody loves everybody! We all get along really well; people from different sports teams, different dorms - day students included - know that we're in this together!"
--Renee LaMarche '14

Seniors

"I want to lay on the lawn after school, go downtown for brunch, sit in commons for hours on a Friday night, buy unhealthy snacks from the den, watch movies with my friends after sign in, maybe even do my homework....but all because I want to and not because I have to." --Jing Qu '13

"For the last three years here, I really did not have much time to get to know a lot of people...before I graduate, I want to get to know more people and learn from them." --Hyun Woo Kim '13

"I want to fall back in love with Andover and graduate with all my freshman enthusiasm: I'll be relaxing on the great lawn, getting stir fry even though the line seems insurmountable and going to bed before 11!" --Victoria Morgan '13

"Perform in a drama lab. Before I came to Andover, I did theatre at my high school... it would only add even more dramatic, wonderful memories" --Greg Young '13

"I'll probably spend the next 100 days in some state between hysterically laughing and hysterically crying. My face will be perpetually distorted."
--Jackie Murray '13

A photograph of a large, leafy tree in the foreground, partially obscuring a view of a brick building with white window frames. The ground is covered in fallen leaves. The tree's branches and leaves are in sharp focus, framing the scene. The building in the background is a multi-story brick structure with several windows. The ground is a mix of green grass and fallen yellow and brown leaves. A person is visible walking in the distance on the right side of the image.

You wonder about your eighteen years, ricocheting between a stubborn determination that you've done well for your own capabilities and opportunities... You wonder if you've got what it takes to keep building up obstacle courses for yourself, and to keep leaping through them, sprained ankle or not.

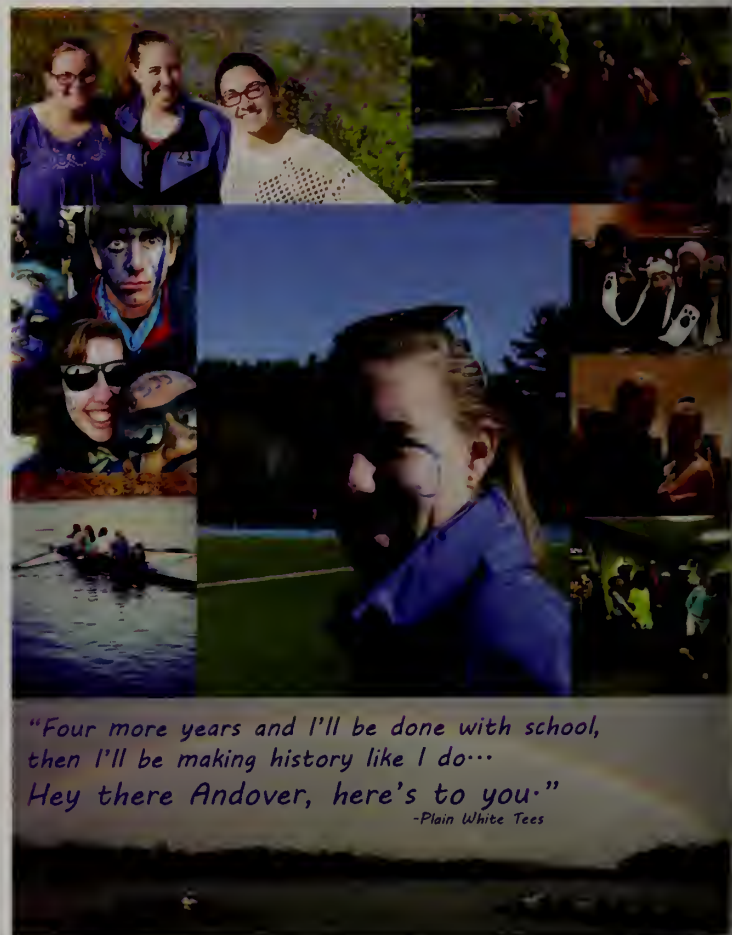

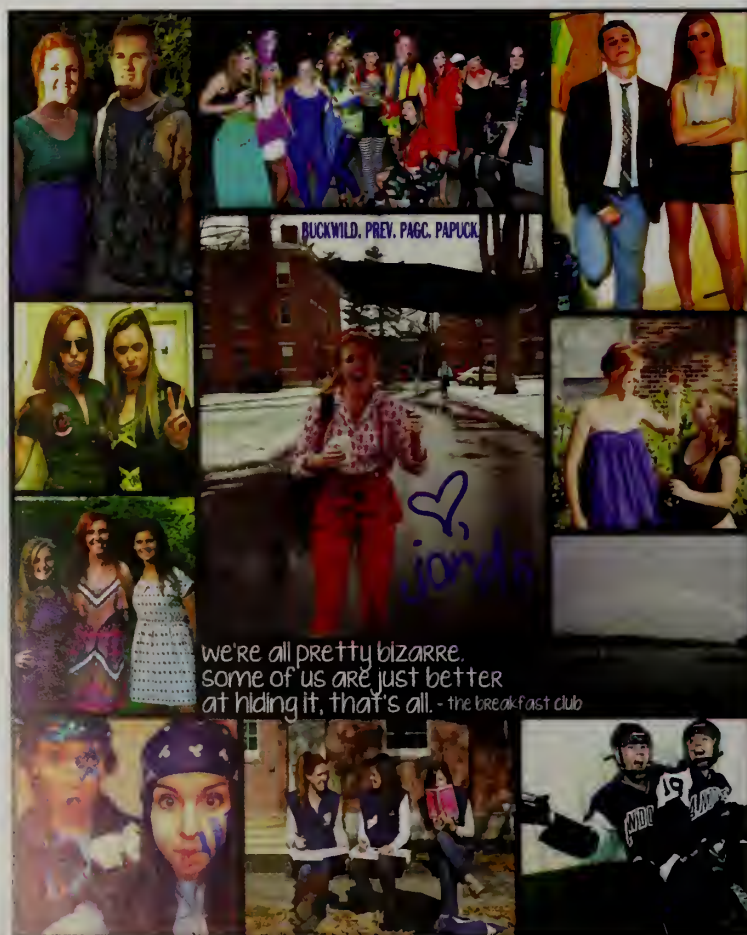

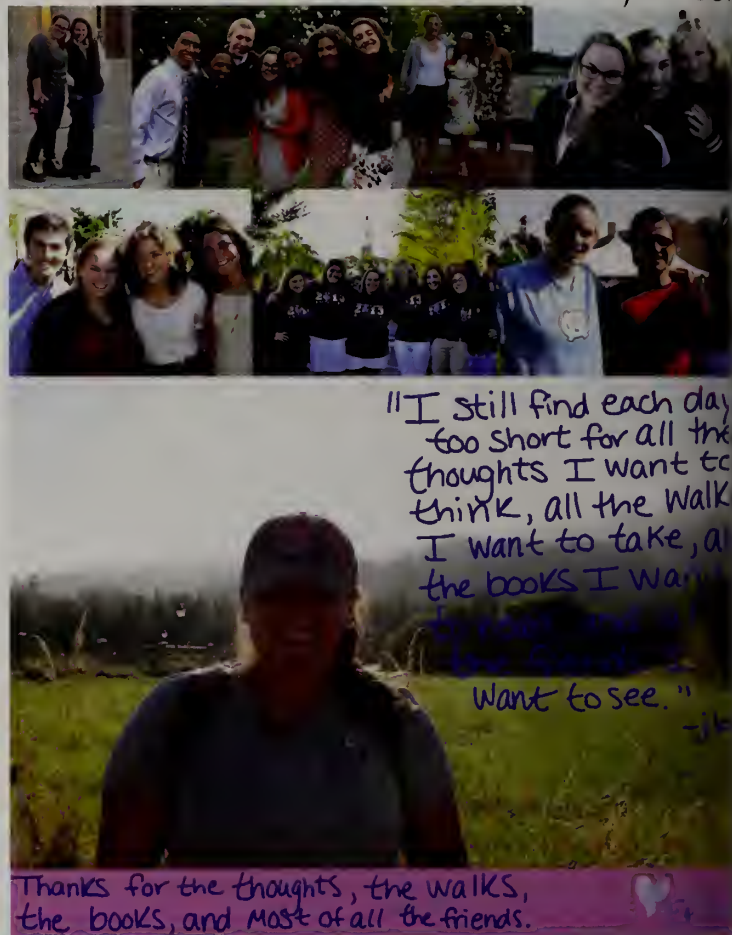

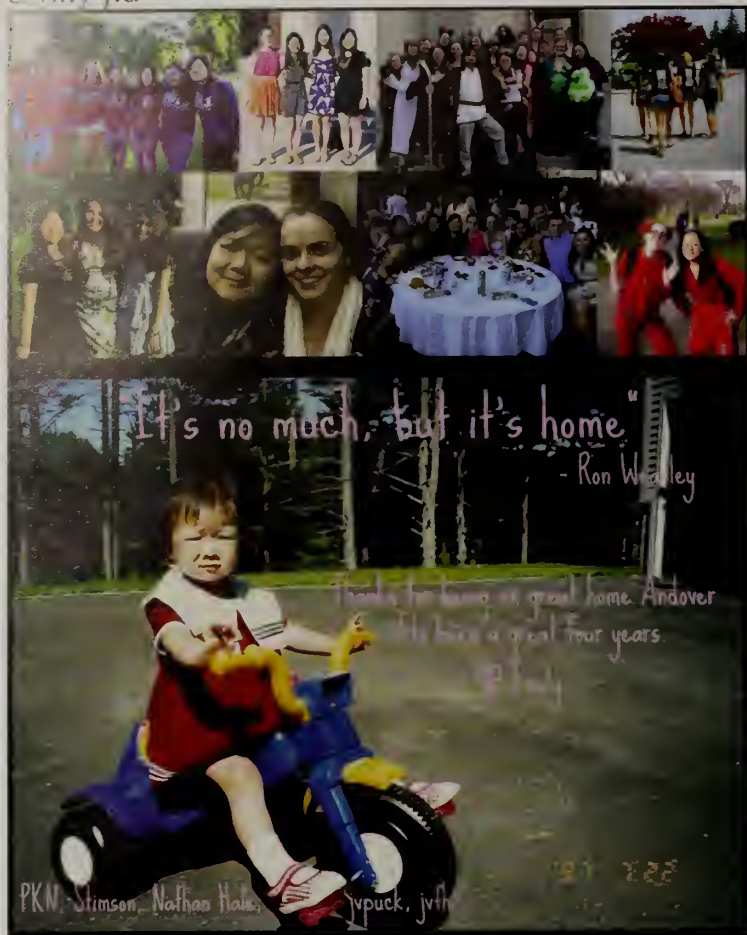

Again the refrain, what have you for your eighteen years? So you will rot in the ground, and so you say, what the hell? Who cares? But you care, and somehow you don't want to live just one life, which could be typed, which could be tossed off in a thumbnail sketch: "She was the sort of girl..." and end in 25 words or less. You want to live as many lives as you can... and because you're eighteen, because you're still vulnerable, because you still don't have faith in yourself, you talk a little flily, a little too wisely, just to cover up... so you can still laugh at yourself while there's still time... Yes, you can outline the people you've lived with these eighteen years in a few sentences. Yet could you give an account of their lives, their hopes, their dreams? You could try, perhaps, but they would be much the same as yours... for you are all an inexplicable unity — this family group with its twisted tensions, un-reasoning loves and solidarity and loyalty born and bred in blood. These people are the ones most basically responsible for what you are. ~sylvia plath

Sleepless laughter drifts across a popcorn sky, Seamlessly floating on gossamer threads through a cobalt hue
A lightning flash, but where are you?

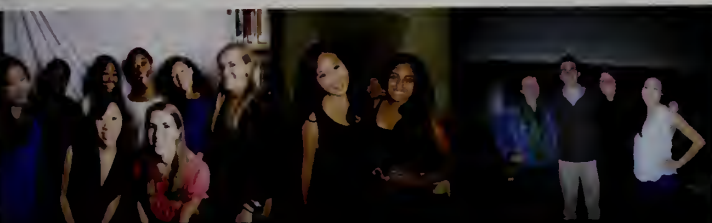

Auburn fields reflect waves of turquoise, Sable beaches meander blindly, following orders of some providence askew Breakers crash, but where are you?

An ochre sky turns to mulberry, as if some director is saying
"Fade to black."
An eternal dash, but where are you?

You're away in a world void of sin and corruptions.
You're away from the afflictions and wounds of my actions
You're away from me whenever I dream, but I awake, and always

If the going is tough and the pressure is on; if reserves of strength have been drained and the summit is still not in sight; then the quality to see in a person is neither great strength nor quickness of hand but rather a resolute mind set on its purpose that refuses to let its body slacken or rest.

Veronica Harrington

To our Veronica,

You decided to "Go East, Young Woman" and we are so very proud of your independent spirit and the confidence you have to pursue your passions.

Congratulations on making the best decision of your life and all that you have achieved at Andover.

We love you and can't wait for the next chapter to begin!

From the basement of Morse Hall, the Pot Pourri Staff is proud to present "Be," Phillips Academy Andover's 2012-2013 Yearbook. Phillips Academy Andover is located on 180 Main Street in Andover Massachusetts. Layouts of this yearbook were made on four Mac Desktops using In-Design CS4, and photographs were edited using Adobe Photoshop CS4. The main fonts used in this book were Baskerville Old Face, AHJ Imperial, Jenna Sue, and Coneria Script. The yearbook was printed by Herff Jones and all layouts, photographs, and text was submitted through E-Page on www.yearbook.biz.

The board would like to sincerely thank our Herff Jones representative Susan Happel for her unconditional love, support and advice -- none of this would be possible without you! Additionally, we owe our deepest gratitude to our faculty advisor Mr. Capano, Mrs. Scofield and Mrs. Mohammed, Scott Diekema '14 and The Phillipian for use of their Brighton Beach Memoir photos, and Gina Sawaya '13, Christopher Hedley '13, Malynna Mam '13, and Kristin Mendez '13 for their photos from 2009-2010 used in "Then and Now."

in closing

To the Andover student body, we present the 2012-2013 edition of Pot Pourri with a bittersweet sense of joy. We hope these pages bring you fond memories, both now and in the future, as you recall the excitement and wonder of this school year. Without a doubt, Andover is an exceptional place to be -- from SamPhill to Phelps Stadium, from Cochran Chapel to the basement of Morse Hall, this school constantly pushes its students to discover themselves, and to be the best they can be.

Although it has not always been easy, if looking back on this yearbook helps to bring back the remarkable and unique moments we all feel as Andover students, then we have done our job.

Much love,
Pot Pourri 2012-2013

Sweet Spring, Sixteen?

My favorite memories from freshman spring have to be the late night conversations with the girls in my dorm. Even though you may have tons of homework still left to do, you eventually end up in someone's room - laughing and talking about your day to your closest friends who were total stranger only a few months before. -- Isabella Haegg '16

The most fun I had freshman spring was when most of the freshman were outside the library lawning, playing frisbee, talking, and just chilling. -- Gustavo Lopez '16

I loved freshman spring! The weather is fantastic (for the most part) and I feel like I am finally fully adjusted to the Andover lifestyle. I am getting to know many more people in my grade, and that I am starting to get closer to classmates outside of my friend group. I have loved dorm life in Hale and my hall has grown super close, so it will be hard to move out. -- Victoria Bergeron '16

best & worst

Upper spring was awesome only because it wasn't the catastrophe that was upper fall. I haven't had a stress induced breakdown yet. Least favorite part of upper year was running out of peanut butter last week when I had 4 major assignments, an AP, and my 310 paper. I also ran out of dark roast coffee at the same time and had to resort to a medium roast house blend. The best part of upper spring, well actually all of upper year, was making some of the greatest friends I've ever had. -- Kai Kornegay '14

The team this year was like a family. We stayed composed through a rough middle part of our season and played our best when it mattered most. We knew we had the talent and that we were finally firing on all cylinders and that translated to two easy wins and our decked straight central New England title.

hit me with your best shot

Because we're such a small team, we get extremely close throughout the season. The best thing about GVT is that we don't take ourselves seriously: we have like seven different anthems that we sing and dance to on the courts, we feast on mango, we frequently hit each other, and were all about PPR. GVT lives high and heavy. -- Campbell Howe '14

The highlight so far was probably the trip down to Maryland for the NEMA tournament where we came in second place. We still have the New England tournament coming up, which we're pretty hopeful about. It's looking like we have a good shot of taking the trophy home this year, so we're working hard now to get ready. -- Henry Kalb '14

We learned how to not only make ourselves look better, but how to make our teammates the best they can be as well. For me Exeter was my favorite game because it was truly a culmination of all that we learned and strived for together. Also, jumping in the Exeter river with Kate and Marth after the game was priceless! -- Cara Daly '13

We started off slow, and despite some losses to some pretty good teams early on, we've banded together and started to get on a roll. It feels great to beat this year's founders league champs and we're all stoked to go up against Exeter. Should be a banger! -- David Belluche '14

Andover Crew has meant so much to me throughout the years. I will miss practices on the Merrimack and even swimming in the toxic water and the countless good times out at the boathouse. Crew is it's own world, you spend so much time doing it that the team becomes your family, and I couldn't have asked for a better family for the past four years. -- Dylan MacDonald '13

There's nothing better than swinging down the Merrimack River in an Andover Crew shell. Hitting a sprint the right way at the end of a workout feels like flying, and we had that feeling a few times this season. Even though things didn't always go as planned, everything was worth it just for that. -- Sam Green '13

ultimately,

Over the course of the season we improved drastically as a team. At the beginning of the year, we were still figuring out everyone's strengths and weaknesses and the different types of defenses that we were running. By the end of the season though we had an extremely solid defense and we were able to elevate our level of play and compete with some of the best teams in the area.— Cameron Morose '13

I think the secret to this sport is remembering that nothing seems that bad after it is over. Although climbing hills is painful during the race, I always feel so happy when I finish. The team is also super fun. Everyone is really enthusiastic and supportive of each other. – Zoe Chazen '14

Whether we're in practice or eating dinner together or on a ridiculously long bus ride to a tournament, there is always the sense that we do everything for each other and that we are first and foremost a team. I find it much, much easier to push myself to my own limits if I know that my teammate beside me is also giving all he has for the team. – Anjali Krishnamachar '13

culture shock

Asian Arts Festival was a really great experience for me. I had a lot of fun cooking the Thai Green Curry and the legendary Thai Tea. Although this was my very first time cooking, I was so proud that the food turned out to be precious (and everything was sold out)! Thanks to the Festival, I had a chance to try doing new things, to meet new friends, and to show Americans that Thai food has other things to do than Pad Thai! –Poupee Sinsub '13

My favourite dishes were the chicken from CTSA and the Thai rice. Although they were very simple dishes, it was very nice to have proper asian food. My favourite memory from the festival was the street dance in the talent show. I had only seen street dancing scenes in movies and on TV, and it was very entertaining to watch it live. -- Harriet Chiu '15

dear seniors,

It's about time that you guys finally graduated. Yes, it has been tough churning through the grind that we call Andover, but that is all in the past now. After the blood, sweat, and tears you have shed over the past one, two, three, or lucky four years, you finally made it to the top. The sad reality is that this is being stripped away only for you to be thrown into a completely new environment called "college." This next chapter will be filled with new friends, experiences, and expectations that will direct you toward the rest of your lives. That apprehensive advice aside, this note is to thank you, not warn you, for your powerful presence over the years. We want to celebrate the memories we have shared with you, class of 2013. We want to highlight the impact that you have left in our hearts. You were all role models to someone, to at least one person whose life changed simply after meeting you. Whether you spent your time on the Turf, in Graves, or in the common room, you set high standards for the future seniors that will walk in your footsteps, learning from your actions. It will be a challenge to replace such stellar athletes, musicians, artists, and scholars, but it will always be more difficult for us to watch our senior friends walk down the vista that one last time. Though we may not all be in the same place anymore, you will always be in our hearts. We, the class of 2014, are honored to succeed such a fantastic group of students in our final year at Andover. Thank you and congratulations!
